2.3.1 Student-centric methods such as experiential learning, participative learning and problem-solving methodologies are used for enhancing learning experiences

To meet our students' diverse needs, we use a variety of pedagogical tools such as participatory learning and problem-solving to enhance their overall learning experience. Seminars, group discussions, and other student-centered initiatives are actively included. Hands-on laboratory lessons are an integral part of our instructional system. Our teachers in mathematics and business problem-solving prioritise developing numerical competency to strengthen students' skill sets, while maintaining traditional instructional methods such as chalkboard presentations.
